The Department of Pathology at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine seeks a full-time non-tenure-eligible Clinician-Educator in Surgical Pathology at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or full Professor. Responsibilities include excellence in diagnosis and teaching in Surgical Pathology, with areas of specialized interest or training in Pulmonary, Head, Neck or Endocrine Pathology. Service responsibilities in Cytopathology could be available for the appropriate candidate, if desired. The successful candidate will have a record of demonstrated productivity and scholarship in these areas and will be expected to conduct investigations in collaboration with clinical colleagues and trainees in Pathology. The Surgical Pathology Division offers subspecialty sign-out and works closely with other divisions of the department including hematopathology, cytopathology, neuropathology, and diagnostic molecular pathology. In addition to clinical responsibilities and research, faculty are expected to play an active role in teaching and training medical students, residents, and fellows.

Qualified candidates will hold MD or MD/PhD degrees and be board certified in AP or AP/CP from the American Board of Pathology and be eligible for an unrestricted medical license in the State of Illinois. Rank and remuneration will be determined by qualification and experience.

Interested applicants should submit an application and include letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and names of three to five references via Northwestern University’s Faculty Recruiting Website.

Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes, including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women, racial and ethnic minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States.
