Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine

Department of Pathology

Academic Breast Pathologist

The Department of Pathology at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine seeks a full-time, non-tenure-eligible Clinician-Educator at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Professor to join the division of Breast Pathology. A successful candidate will display excellence in diagnostic breast pathology, have a record of demonstrated productivity and scholarship, and exhibit a commitment to teaching. The division evaluates over 6,500 in-house breast biopsy and resection cases and over 1,000 second opinion consult cases annually. Advanced immunohistochemistry, FISH, and molecular studies are integrated into clinical service. In addition to clinical responsibilities and research, faculty are expected to play an active role in the teaching and training of medical students, residents, and fellows. Breast cancer is one of the areas of excellence at Northwestern Medicine, and the environment for hypothesis driven basic research and translational and collaborative research at Northwestern University, Northwestern Memorial Hospital, and the Robert H. Lurie Comprehensive Cancer Center is outstanding.

Qualified candidates will hold MD or MD/PhD degrees and be board certified in AP or AP/CP from the American Board of Pathology, as well as be eligible for an unrestricted medical license in the State of Illinois. Fellowship training in breast pathology is required. Additional fellowship training or experience in other surgical pathology subspecialty areas would be viewed favorably.

The start date is negotiable, and the position will remain open until filled. Rank and remuneration determined by qualifications and experience.

When applying, please upload a CV and cover letter describing your interest and alignment with the position via Northwestern University's Faculty Recruiting Website.

Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes, including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women, racial and ethnic minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States.
