The Department of Pathology at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine seeks a full-time non-tenure-eligible Clinician-Educator at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Professor. A successful candidate will display excellence in diagnosis and teaching in GI, liver and pancreatobiliary pathology as well as have a record of demonstrated productivity and scholarship in this area. Experience in general surgical pathology or other subspecialty area is a plus. The Surgical Pathology division offers subspecialty sign out and works closely with other divisions of the department including hematopathology, cytopathology, neuropathology and diagnostic molecular pathology. In addition to clinical responsibilities and research, faculty are expected to play an active role in teaching and training medical students, residents and fellows.

Qualified candidates will hold MD or MD/PhD degrees and be board certified in AP or AP/CP from the American Board of Pathology. Candidates must be eligible for an unrestricted medical license in the State of Illinois. Fellowship training or other significant experience in gastrointestinal pathology is required. Rank and remuneration determined by qualifications and experience.

The start date is negotiable, and the position will remain open until filled.

When applying, please upload a CV and cover letter describing your interest and alignment with the position via Northwestern University’s Faculty Recruiting Website.

Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes, including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women, racial and ethnic minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States.